DIVIDED IN CREED, UNITED IN DEED

By Rabbi Maurice N. Eisendrath

Although there be those puny individuals in this world who permit their petty personal grievances to take precedence over the mighty principles they presume to espouse, we would dislike very much being counted in their miserable and mercenary number. To us, none is so despicable as those who would sacrifice a great public cause upon the success of which millions of human creatures depend in order that they might selfishly grind their own private axes and satisfy their vainglorious grudges. It is because we so thoroughly detest this rather common human failing that we are taking this initiative in joining forces with those who seem to enjoy cutting their noses to spite their faces; who, because of theoretical differences of opinion would spurn whatever aid we might bring to the practical program which they so zealously seek to further. Thus it is that, although our assistance has not been solicited by official circles, although for pathetic reasons no Toronto Zionist publicity for some months past has been given to this periodical, thus venally sacrificing a vital cause to a partial person, still, we feel it incumbent upon ourselves to voice a very earnest and heartfelt plea for the full support of the present United Palestine Appeal, to be auspiciously launched by Rabbi Stephen S. Wise next Monday evening at the King Edward Hotel.

Contrary to the opinion of some who would set up a man of straw that their propagandistic genius might have the necessary impetus of healthy opposition, never have we been opposed to the practical work in Palestine. Never before our advent to Toronto has our willingness to participate in this program been misconstrued; never has any appeal for cooperation in this noble venture failed to strike a responsive chord in our heart. Never have we uttered a single word to convey the impression—unless painfully distorted—that we were antagonistic to the inspiring experiment in Palestine. For some strange reason, our perfectly legitimate emphasis—based on an appreciation of our historic past, upon the religious purpose of Israel's destiny has been misinterpreted as being antithetical to the Zionist hope. While we have opposed political ambitions and chauvinistic demands, we have clung stubbornly to the glowing possibilities which might again flow forth from Zion's sod. While we have refused to admit that Palestine is the sine qua non of Jewish survival, we have never denied the impetus which it might bring to Catholic Israel the world over. While we have regarded Zionism as but one fact of Israel's many social and marvellously variegated career, of which the Diaspora is by no means the least; we have cherished the fond hope that the "cultural center" in Eretz Yisroel, of which Achad Ha'Am spoke so eloquently, might quicken and revitalize the Jew wherever he chances to abide.

Consequently, we have ever felt that the heroic pursuits in Palestine, the courageous Chalutzim and Chalutzoth, the miracle working colonies, merit the hearty, the fervid, the enthusiastic and generous support of all factions in Israel. For this reason, while still in the United States, we fervidly welcomed the formation of the Jewish Agency. We were happy to learn that men could retain their profoundly sincere convictions and yet be granted the opportunity to contribute liberally to the concrete affairs of Zionism. We rejoiced that men who for many years had recognized the dire needs of Jewry in the lands of Eastern Europe and in America itself were now no longer deaf to the cry which issued from the plains of Jezreel and the hills of Lebanon, and that leaders who retained their religious interpretation of Israel's centuried saga recognized that without renouncing their lifelong faith, they could link themselves even with those from whom they radically differed in the solution of the tangible and tangled problems confronting not merely the Zionists, but the whole of Jewry. Though divided—irrevocably perhaps—in creed, they were united in deed; and moneys flowed at last from sources hitherto closed to Zion's plea. Nor did the Zionists sell their souls for this mess of pottage, as many have averred. They, too, held fast to their nationalistic philosophy while accepting not the doctrine or mind, but merely the helping hand of those from whom they were divided in theory alone. All were now convinced that the spiritual and cultural reawakening in Zion could not but redound to the benefit of world Jewry; the work itself was the important thing; the theoretical bickerings and banterings were of little moment. Thus in the United States at the present moment, we behold the inspiring spectacle of all Israel: Reform, Conservative, Orthodox; Zionist and non-Zionist; Nationalist and Universalist—all concentrated on the enormous task of caring for their suffering brethren in both Eastern Europe and Palestine, making real, almost for the first time on this western continent our proud—though all too frequently empty—boast that "Kol Yisroel Chaverim"; there is displayed an enviable united front which it were well—expedient and economical likewise—for us Canadians to emulate.

Which brings us back to Toronto. Despite the denials of some, there is room, there is basis even here, for divergence of views. We need not all agree that Palestine is the sole objective of all Jewish longing and hope. For some of us it may well be the end and purpose of all the centuries' mad strivings; for others it must ever remain only a phase in Israel's universal ministry. We must agree however that whether all inclusive goal or partial means, it is important, vital, worthy. It behooves us all to concur in the need for whole hearted support of this movement which has done so much to refurbish and to rekindle our Jewish loyalties and aspirations. There is no reason why one group, differing from the rest in emphasis and in interpretation, should feel itself therefore exempted from participation in the practical work of rebuilding Palestine. There is no valid excuse for any Jew in the community of Toronto to say that he is not interested in Zionism. Too frequently, all too frequently, this is but a selfish rationalization of a protesting and penurious pocketbook. Indifference to the political complexities of the Zionist organization dare not preclude our interest in the venture itself. It is a part, an intrinsic and inspiring part of Jewish life, and none who boasts his Jewish fealty—whether of Reform or Orthodox predilections—can escape his responsibility to this world engaging endeavor. It is Israel's task, and all Israel must respond.

Waiving aside fundamental cavilling and schismatic opinions, regretting deeply those petty personal prejudices which seem perfectly willing to sacrifice the soul stirring appeal of myriads of fellow Jews for their own proud sakes, we seize this only opportunity afforded us to entreat all Toronto Jewry—particularly those who are apathetic, indifferent, or even antagonistic to various of the many interpretations of Zionism, to join heartily and generously in this gigantic and challenging Jewish adventure by giving liberally and abundantly to the United Palestine Appeal.

TENTH ANNUAL MEETING ELECTS OFFICERS

The Jewish Immigrant Aid Society of Canada held its tenth annual meeting at Baron de Hirsch Institute Sunday, May 18th. Over 300 members and out-of-town delegates were present. The president, Benjamin Robinson, said that in the last ten years the Society assisted 41,873 Jewish arrivals. The sum of $176,929.60 was spent in relief to the incoming immigrant. During the last year 3,500 Jews entered Canada. With suicide the only solution for many European Jews unless they can escape their economic plight, the usefulness of the Jewish immigrant Aid has only just begun. With the prospective change in the control of the nature and number of immigrants that will come to Canada in future, Mr. Robinson thought the provinces may be given a direct say in the matter. It was to be hoped by the Jews that provincial politicians would not make of the immigration question a political football. A. J. Paull, the executive secretary and head of the National Organization gave his report. Representatives of the Society, met 466 boats and 392 immigrant trains. The Department of Legal Aid dealt with over 2,000 special cases in which intervention with the authorities was necessary. The Employment Bureau placed in permanent employment 505 Jewish immigrants. Many immigrants were helped to become Canadian citizens. Mr. Paull expressed gratitude to the Honorable Chas. Stewart, Acting Minister of Immigration and Colonization; to Senator Robert Forke, former Minister of Immigration and Colonization; and to W. J. Egan, Deputy Minister of Immigration and Colonization. The treasurer, J. Albert, said the society, spent during the fiscal year under review $25,828.16, the income aggregating $22,115.85, leaving a deficit of $3,712.31. M. A. Gray, General Secretary of the Western Division of the Society; B. Goldfield, Secretary of the Ottawa Committee; and J. A. Glanz, President of the Windsor Branch, reported.

Greetings from the Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid Society of America were brought by its national vice-president, Adolph Copeland, of Chicago. H. Wolofsky spoke. A vote of thanks to the English and Jewish press moved by H. M. Caiserman and seconded by Ald. J. Schubert was unanimously adopted. S. W. Jacobs and A. A. Heaps, members of the Federal House of Commons and honorary presidents of the Society, expressed the view that Jewish immigration to Canada will not be affected by any changes in the policy of the Government. Ald. J. Schubert, moved a resolution of thanks to Lyon Cohen, Honorary President of the Society. Elected were: president, Benjamin Robinson; 1st. vice-president, L. B. Daniels; 2nd. vice-president, H. Barsky; treasurer, J. Albert; honorary secretary, H. M. Caiserman; Board of Directors, L. K. Caplin, Leon B. Crestohl, M. Dickstein, S. S. Fels, M. Scherer, Ald. J. Schubert, J. Schaffran, S. Temkin, W. Tarlow, D. Weissman, A. Wolofsky, L. Zucker.

Following is an excerpt from Mr. Robinson's report:

"It is hardly necessary for me to dwell on the serious plight in which Jews find themselves in almost all European countries. Poland, Roumania, Russia, Austria and even Germany are daily raising barriers against the Jews. When these barriers were only social, it affected but a few; now when they are economic, and when laws are passed curtailing the power of the Jew even to eke out an existence, his situation is so precarious that very often suicide is the only solution. Never in history has there been so many suicides as have occurred in the last few years amongst Jews. This condition, of course, is brought about by actual starvation, and although relief measures on a large scale are planned in the United States, and although a great deal of constructive work is accomplished by the pouring of these funds into these countries for the relief of Jews, it is of course mostly relief, and improves the economic condition of the Jews there only slightly.

"The various organizations dealing with emigration and immigration feel, however, that more permanent good can be achieved by finding new homes where the stricken Jews may be allowed an opportunity to enjoy freedom. Canadian Jewry has done its fair share in bringing forward during the last year over thirty-five hundred Jews, who have settled in Canada, are now earning their livelihood and are gradually bringing over their relatives here as well. They are thus relieving to a great extent the economic pressure that bears so heavily upon the Jews on the other side. Every immigrant that comes to our shores leaves a place in Europe that may be filled by another Jew there, who probably is saved. Everyone who settles in Canada and begins to earn a living, makes it his business to support his relatives in Europe until such time as he can afford to bring them forward. This double benefit that Canadian Jewry provides is of utmost importance in relieving the constant pressure on our people. The more Canadian Jewry can do along these lines, the more will be the gratitude of world Jewry towards it.

"Although we owe a debt of gratitude to our Jewish members of Parliament, we must not forget that even their power is limited, and we often had to seek the aid of other members of Parliament who, I am glad to say, were anxious and eager to help their constituents bring their relatives forward. I mention particularly Mr. C. H. Cahan, K.C., M.P., and Mr. J. A. Mercier, K.C., M.P., who in Montreal did a great deal for their constituents; and prevailed upon the Department to allow the entry of immigrants who without their help could not have come forward. Our organization in Toronto, too, have been fortunate in having the aid of Col. Geary, M.P., and Mr. C. W. Hockin, M.P., who too did their share in helping the residents of their constituencies bring forward their relatives.

"If it were possible to prevail upon individual members of the Jewish community to be present when a group of immigrants come off the train or the boat and see how they are met by our representatives and catered to, and see the hunted look of the immigrants disappear when our representative speaks to them in their own tongue and evinces a friendly spirit. You will be satisfied that if this were the only thing the Society did, it was a sufficient reason for existence, but when you add to this, the obtaining of the permit, intervention in order to help people

Auditorium, 3561 St. Urbain St. Interludes will be composed of dance and musical numbers. Cast: Miss Fannie Levine, Maizie Stromberg, Carrie Rosenberg, Gertrude Platt, Edith Spiegel, Fay Stern, Lillian Gilman, Mollie Carson and Lilly Stromberg. Dancing under the direction of Miss Bert Letovsky, dance instructor at the Y.W.H.A. Dancers are Misses Fannie Levine, Lillian Gilman, Mollie Carson, Fay Stern, Edith Spiegel and Becky Waxman. Friends invited.

[illegible]who [illegible]ained at the ports, the obtaining of visas, passports, transportation documents to facilitate the entry of relatives, the searching for and finding of relatives who have disappeared, the various appeals to the Department at Ottawa, the sending of letters and telegrams to residents advising them of the arrival of their relatives, the maintaining of a general information bureau, employment bureau, naturalization bureau and remittance bureau, you must admit that it deserves the support of every Jew in Canada."

A[illegible] said in part:

"Destiny has placed us, Canadian Jews, in the position of being the most favoured among the Jewish people. We live amidst conditions that make for the greatest freedom and the greatest happiness. But we must not live our lives selfishly and we must not become so self-complacent that the fate of our people no longer concerns us. If that were the case, we should ill-use our freedom, we should little enjoy our happiness or deserve it. We present to Canadian Jewry the case of the Jewish wanderer confident that it will be considered with sympathy and good-will and the necessary steps taken to alleviate the conditions of the migrant until peace and security come to him as it has come to us."

OFFICER HONOURED

Officers and friends of the Montefiore Hebrew Orphans Home, 4650 Jeanne Mance St., assembled on Lag b'Omar night, Thursday, May 15th, to honour their vice-president, I. M. Rubinovitch, on his fifty-fifth birthday. R. H. Blumenthal, president of Baron de Hirsch Book Club, was toastmaster. Among the speakers were L. B. Montreal Federation Elects Trustees

Facing a probable deficit of $92,000 for the current year, the officers of the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies outlined the nature of the crisis which confronts the organization at the 13th. annual meeting Sunday afternoon, May 18, in the Baron de Hirsch Institute.

"The Family Welfare Department, which is our biggest spender, budgeted for $138,146. Owing to the prevalence of unemployment after Christmas, the Family Welfare had to become responsible for 100 extra cases," Allan Bronfman said. "That meant that this department was spending at the rate of $4,000 a month more than had been budgeted.

"Since the Federation's financial plight became apparent, the Family Welfare has agreed to get along with $120,000 for the year. A committee is reinvestigating every case on the books and will ascertain if expenditures can be cut further without causing hardship. The Hebrew Orphans' Home has decreased its cost of maintenance by $7,885. The Old People's Home, with a population of approximately 70, only costs the Federation about $9,000 per annum due to certain income which the Home enjoys.

"The present economic situation reveals the necessity of the Federation endeavoring to build up a reserve fund in the years when times are good and the raising of funds is easier," Mr. Bronfman continued. "When prosperity is general, we should put aside certain sums to provide for lean days. This would be sound business and would save the members of Federation many anxious hours."

J. Levinson, Sr., the president, and Harris Vineberg and M. M. Sperber spoke. Seated on the platform with the president were: Maxwell Goldstein, K.C., honorary president; David Kirsch, first vice-president; A. H. Jassby, Allan Bronfman, Martin Simon, honorary treasurer, Simon Kirsch, honorary secretary; and E. G. F. Vaz, comptroller. The following were elected trustees at large: Allan Bronfman, Samuel Bronfman, A. Z. Cohen, Jos. Cohen, K.C., M.L.A., N. Deskin, C. B. Fainer, Leon H. Fischel, Samuel Hart, A. H. Jassby, David Kirsch, Dr. Simon Kirsch, Felix Leopold, J. Levinson, Sr., H. M. Ripstein, Louis Salomon, Joel B. Saxe, Martin Simon, M. M. Sperber.

Mrs. A. Nissenson, who before her marriage was Miss Ethel Seigler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Seigler, Avenue Road, Toronto.

Marriages

Nissenson-Seigler

The marriage of Ethel Ruth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Seigler, to Abraham Nissenson, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Nissenson, of Montreal, took place at the Primrose Club, Rabbi M. N. Eisendrath officiating. During the ceremony a solo was given by Mrs. M. A. Pollock, with Miss Mildred Marks at the piano. Miss Marks also played the wedding march. Spring flowers converted the ballroom into a bower. The walls were hung with southern smilax while potted ferns and narcissi filled the windows. The bride was given away by her father. She wore a gown of heavy ivory satin. Her long court train of satin was inset with lace. Her veil of tulle illusion, arranged in halo effect, was held by a row of pearls and caught across the back of her head with tiny orange blossoms. The veil trailed far behind her court train finishing in a circular hem. She also wore ivory satin slippers and carried orchids and lily of the valley. Miss Mabel Sabath, of Chicago, who was the maid of honor, was the bride's only attendant, wore a frock of peach colored taffeta with tulle and shoes to match and carried a bouquet of Talisman roses. Irwin Rubinowitch, of Montreal, was best man. Mrs. Seigler wore a gown of Chantilly faille, fashioned on long lines, with shoes to match and her corsage was of orchids and lily of the valley. Mrs. L. Nissenson, of Montreal, mother of the bride-groom, was in a gown of black lace and carried a bouquet of red roses. Dinner was served to the immediate family. The reception following was attended by 300 guests. The bride and bride-groom received in a bower of smilax and pink snapdragon. Later Mr. and Mrs. Nissenson left for Montreal and sailed from St. John on the Dutchess of Atholl for Europe. Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. L. Nissenson, Mrs. D. Seigler, M. C. COMMENTARIES

By Rabbi HARRY J. STERN, of Montreal,
Associate Contributing Editor

A MAN'S PRAYER

"Teach me that sixty minutes make an hour, sixteen ounces a pound and one hundred cents a dollar. Help me to live so that I can lie down at night with a clear conscienec and unhaunted by the faces of those to whom I may have brought pain. Grant that I may earn my meal ticket on the square, and in earning it I may do unto others as I would have them do unto me. Deafen me to the jingle of tainted money. Blind me to the faults of other fellows and reveal to me my own. Guide me so that each night when I look across the table at my wife, who has been a blessing to me, I will have nothing to conceal. Keep me young enough to laugh with little children and sympathetic so as to be considerate of old age. And comes the day of darkening shades make the ceremony short and the epitaph simple: "Here is a man"—Robert H. Robinson.

AN APOSTLE OF PEACE

One of the fine leaders of our day is Nicholas Butler, president of Columbia University. At a recent meeting in London he gave expression to the following: "We must rise from the old fashioned, selfish, competitive, quarrelsome nationalism to a new and loftier service of patriotism which finds a nation's highest purpose in its highest service." It is interesting to note that Butler agrees with Winston Churchill and Emil Ludwig that "Twenty or twenty-five men alone unaided carried 10,000,000 human beings to their death and destroyed the wealth of generations".

MORRIS JOSEPH

With the death of the Reverend Morris Joseph, English Jewry lost an outstanding scholar and a most charming interpreter of Judaism. Hardly a Jewish library to-day that does not have Joseph's "Judaism as Creed and Life." I personally consider that Jew the poorer, intellectually, who has not read Joseph's splendid interpretation of the traditional point of view of Judaism. Among Jewish students Morris Joseph will be remembered also as contributor to Hastings Encyclopaedia of Religion and Ethics and writer of many volumes of sermons. While Morris Joseph was reckoned with in English Jewry—he did not occupy that lofty position due him. Perhaps leaders in Jewish communal affairs in England have not looked with favor upon the "liberalism" of the Reverend Morris Joseph. Communal narrowness still abides in London as well as in Montreal.

Y'VORECHECHO

I participated recently at the dedicatory exercises of the clinic in the Sailors Institute. I was agreeably surprised to learn that Dr. A. Lightstone in the main is responsible for the clinic. It always takes a Yehudi to stir up matters. But greater was my surprise to hear the superintendent of this wonderful institution ask me to give the benediction (at the end of the dedicatory service) both in Hebrew and English. And so like unto the Kohanim of old I pronounced the ancient Y'vorechecho. It seems the Hebrew tongue is becoming more popular daily.

"PEOPLE VS WALL STREET"

For those who indulge in the game of "stock market speculations" I recommend William Floyd's book "People vs Wall Street." The volume presents an imaginary trial brought up by the people to determine the sanity of Wall Street. Mr. Floyd vividly reveals that the greatest force in the life of Wall Street is Profit. To realize profit, common decency is put aside, humanity is trampled and personality degraded. The heads of big business are called as witnesses. Here is an interesting question placed before the witnesses by the prosecuting attorney.

Q.—"Then you do not consider Wall Street guilty of money-mania when it proclaims that Capital is entitled to unlimited returns, while Labor should be satisfied with whatever Capital chooses to pay?"

Ans.—"Wall Street is perfectly sane in following natural laws".

The author of this volume shows that one law is followed on Wall Street. The rich shall get richer—Greed. Wall Street—the defendant wins out in the trial. Wall Street, it seems, always wins. But some day the worship of wealth will be substituted for the worship of the spiritual. Then perhaps—Wall Street will crumble. It will be declared decrepit. In the meantime, the profit-chase and hunt will continue for many years to come due to the sanity of Wall Street and the insanity of so many "nice people."

FIRST TALKIE FILM IN HOLY LAND

An expedition sent by the Paramount Co. to Palestine filmed the Nebi Mussa procession, in typically Jewish scenes. Among the scenes are the opening of the University Library on Mount Scopus, including the inaugural speeches of Dr. Magnes, Chancellor of the University, and of Sir John Chancellor, the High Commissioner of Palestine; the planting of the first trees of the Maseryk wood of the Jewish National Fund in the Emek, including the addresses of Col. F. H. Kisch for the Zionist Executive, of Mr. M. Ussischkin for the Jewish National Fund, and of Mr. L. Jaffe for the Keren Hayesod, a youth festival in Tel-Aviv, showing the opening of a school celebrated in an open-air theatre, and attended by 2000 children — this programme includes orchestral items, dances, folksongs and choral singing, a gymnastic display by 500 pupils, and the assembling of all the youth, sport and scout organizations in Tel-Aviv; address by the Mayor; the outstanding feature of this film is the fact that for the first time the Hebrew word will resound loudly and clearly from the canvass.

BRAND NEW RECIPES GREAT HELP FOR SUMMER HOSTESSES

Kelvinator Kitchens Constantly Evolving New Dainty Dishes for Canadian Housewives

There never was a time when the housewives of Canada were as keenly interested in the question of refrigeration as they are right now. The development of electric refrigeration, bringing in its train so many new possibilities in home economics and in culinary progress has quite naturally intrigued the alert women of the country.

Here is a piece of real news concerning electric refrigeration. The Kelvinator Corporation, first in the field to manufacture electric refrigerators for the home, has just completed a country-wide test of Fast Freezing with Iso-Thermic Tubes, one of the exclusive features of the new Kelvinators. The test was made in 49 cities and in each case was checked and certified by a disinterested prominent citizen. The average freezing time was a fraction less than 80 minutes — fastest freezing of water to solid ice the world has known in an electric refrigerator.

This should be interesting to women, not only as an evidence of the progress of the world, but also as a greater convenience and service in the home. Women who entertain are interested in knowing that ice cubes can be frozen in such a short period of time. Fortunate indeed, are the housewives who own a NEW Kelvinator, with its four distinct automatic cold temperatures and Iso-Thermic tubes for super-fast freezing of desserts and ice cubes.

The Culinary experts, experimenting in the Kelvin Kitchen at the Kelvinator plant, have recently developed some very interesting recipes for entrees, frozen sweets and salads, which we believe our women friends will find interesting. For instance

CRAB MEAT RAVIGOTE—2 cups flaked crab meat, 1 tablespoon chili sauce, 3 tablespoons mayonnaise, salt, paprika, slices of lemon, 2 hard cooked eggs, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 2 tablespoons chopped pickles, few capers, strips of canned pimento. Blend the crab meat with the chopped egg whites, chili sauce, parsley, salad dressing, pickles and seasonings. Chill in Kelvinator, replace in crab shells, or place in toasted bread cases and garnish with the yolks of eggs pressed through a sieve and with slices of lemon and strips of pimento.

PECAN SALAD:—1 cup boiling water, 1 tablespoon gelatine, ¼ cup cold water, 4 tablespoons sugar, ¾ cup orange juice, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 12 stuffed olives, 12 whole pecan meats, ½ cup diced celery. Soak gelatine in cold water and dissolve in boiling water. Add sugar, orange and lemon juice. Fill individual molds half full of this mixture. Chill in Kelvinator. Place on top a layer of sliced olives with a whole pecan meat in the center. Pour on a second layer of the jelly mixture and sprinkle salted celery on top. Set in Kelvinator to chill. Unmold on a bed of lettuce. Garnish with mayonnaise and a whole pecan meat on top of each portion.

MAPLE PARFAIT:—¾ cup maple syrup, 1 pint heavy cream, 3 egg whites. Cook Maple syrup until it spins a thread (270 degrees F.) Pour the syrup over the beaten egg whites, and beat until cold. Fold into the

"A THING OF BEAUTY IS A JOY FOREVER"

The homes we live in should be so planned and furnished that each room is a veritable expression of our own artistic nature. How delightful it is to go into a room filled with beautiful furniture, rugs and pictures!

In these modern times, when craftsmen are working out new designs and forms for furniture, is it not a joy to know that even now we can have the old things of centuries ago? — the carved tables of oak; chairs with needle-point covers in rich design fit for the boudoir of Marie Antoinette; a Gothic commode with carved knights, fruits and flowers; graceful figures of Dresden China; and lamps with bronze figures. But everyone has not the wherewithal to purchase a genuine antique these days.

Do you know that a wonderful thing has happened in our city of Montreal? A short while ago a shop called "The Period Furniture Galleries" on St. Catherine Street came into existence. A lady who loved old things crossed the ocean and returned with gorgeous furniture fit for the house of a king.

Her importations are within everyone's means, for while they are not genuine antiques, they are reproduced from the beautiful old designs of France, England, Belgium, Austria and Italy. Tables and chairs are carved by hand and the colourful tapestries are of Aubusson, Gobellins and Needle-Point.

Is this not an opportune message to you who are planning to pick up something really beautiful? And you will find the pieces most reasonable.

You are always welcome to visit the shop. The place will carry you back to the old world of France in the reign of the Louis' and of England in the Middle Ages. Period Furniture Galleries Limited, 1829 St. Catherine Street W., Montreal.

PALESTINE IMMIGRATION CHECK CAUSES CONSTERNATION

Jews Protest Cancellation of 2,400 Permits, Previously Approved

The Palestine Government's latest fiat, suspending all Jewish labor immigration pending the results of the inquiry which Sir John Hope Simpson, the Colonial Office's special commissioner on land settlement and immigration questions in Palestine, is initiating caused consternation in all Jewish circles.

What has happened is that the Palestine Government has canceled 2,400 labor immigration permits — half the yearly schedule — which were approved on May 12 and communicated to the executive of the Jewish Agency. Chief Secretary Mills informed the executive May 14 that the Colonial Office in London had directed the High Commissioner to cancel the permits pending the Simpson report.

Colonel Kisch, on behalf of the Jewish Agency, interviewed the High Commissioner, emphatically protesting the suspension, on political grounds, of an immigration schedule previously approved by the Palestine Government as being economically justified.

Jewish opinion in Jerusalem holds the Arabs will interpret the cancellation as a sign of concessions, particularly as the High Commissioner is alleged to have said, when the Acting President of the Arab executive interviewed him, that Jewish immigration would be suspended.

"This is the greatest compensation that could be awarded to the rioters. * * * This is the most disastrous catastrophe imaginable for the Jewish National Home, because it means we must restrict our homeland to the 160,000 Jews now inhabiting Palestine," says Doar Hayom, the Hebrew daily newspaper. The paper adds that the London Government canceled the permits after the Palestine Government had recognized that the 2,400 Jews could be economically absorbed in Palestine. It says the Jews were lulled into a false sense of security by certain factions minimizing the injurious effect of the report of the commission of inquiry upon the Zionist movement.

Arab public opinion welcomes the suspension, saying it should be a prelude to a government order to prohibit all sales of Arab land to Jews. Arabs say the failure of their delegation's parleys in London is not necessarily final.

Another Palestine Commission

The London Jewish Chronicle in its issue of May 9 says:

"The despatch by the Government of Sir John Hope Simpson to Palestine in order to confer with the High Commissioner there and to report concerning questions of development, immigration and land settlement raised by the Shaw Commission ought to prove of considerable value to the work of Zionism in the country. For to put the matter in the proverbial nutshell the allegation made by Sir Walter Shaw and his colleagues, is that there is no room in Palestine for any large Jewish settlement there unless there be some displacement of the native population, mainly that of the Arabs. Under the Mandate, however, the Mandatory is limited in the encouragement it may give to the facilitation of Jewish immigration by the obligation "that the rights and position of other sections of the population are not prejudiced." Has Jewish immigration impinged on those rights and that position? The Shaw Commission thinks it has, so far as concerns the Arabs, and that in the result much of the trouble the causes of which it was sent out to investigate has arisen. The further and even more important question must then arise: whether Jewish immigration to the extent essential for the creation in Palestine of a National Home for the Jewish People — the chief purpose of the Mandate — can further proceed without any interference of a prejudicial kind with other sections of the population. Upon Sir John Simpson's reply to these queries the policy of the Government in Palestine must necessarily depend, but Sir John's answer, we take it, will not lessen that other obligation placed upon the Mandatory Power in the same Article — No. 6 — whereby State Lands and waste lands not required for public purposes shall be held at the service of Jews for the purpose settlement." We believe we are right in saying that this provision has remained a dead letter ever since the Mandate was undertaken, and in fact has never been acted upon. But then ought not in any case to be any doubt of the general terms of Sir John Simpson's report, seeing that Dr. Weizmann and the Zionist Organization have repeatedly, ever since Palestine came under the Mandate, unhesitatingly stated on the authority of their experts who have from time to time examined the situation, that there is ample room and

Zionist Campaign Extended

The United Palestine Appeal launched in Montreal May 11, will be extended for two more weeks and will end Thursday, May 29, at a dinner to be given by A. J. Freiman, president of the Zionist Organization of Canada, and campaign chairman, and by Mrs. Freiman, president of Dominion Hadassah, and Dominion chairman of the campaign for Hadassah, for all captains and workers. The workers are under the supervision of B. M. Weiner, L. Miller, H. Batshaw, A. H. Rabin, L. D. Crestohl, Dr. M. Ratner, and A. A. Katz. The funds which will be obtained through this drive will be for the most part remitted to the Keren Hayesod (Palestine Foundation Fund) and to the Keren Hayemeth Le'Israel (Jewish National Fund of Palestine) and will help in the realization of the pledge made by Canadian Jewry to redeem the Plain of Sharon.

Young Judaea

Montrea Young Judaea will hold its seventh annual convention May 31st and June 1st at Zionist Headquarters, 384 Sherbrooke Street West. Opening session Saturday, May 31st, at 8.30 p.m. The president, Joseph Frank, will deliver his report. Committees will meet Saturday morning at 10.30 a.m. The third session will be held Sunday afternoon, June 1st at 2.30 p.m. Elections. Annual dinner and dance Tuesday evening, June 3rd, at the Bellevue Restaurant, Metcalfe St.

Montreal Hadassah

Queen Esther Chapter held a shower at a bridge and mah jongg Monday May 19, at 625 Bloomfield Avenue, for the coming food sale. Mrs. I. Trachtenberg and Mrs. L. Trachtenberg were joint hostesses. Next meeting at Zionist Headquarters, 384 Sherbrooke St. West, May 26, at 3 p.m.

Condemn Anti-Jewish Outbreak In Roumania

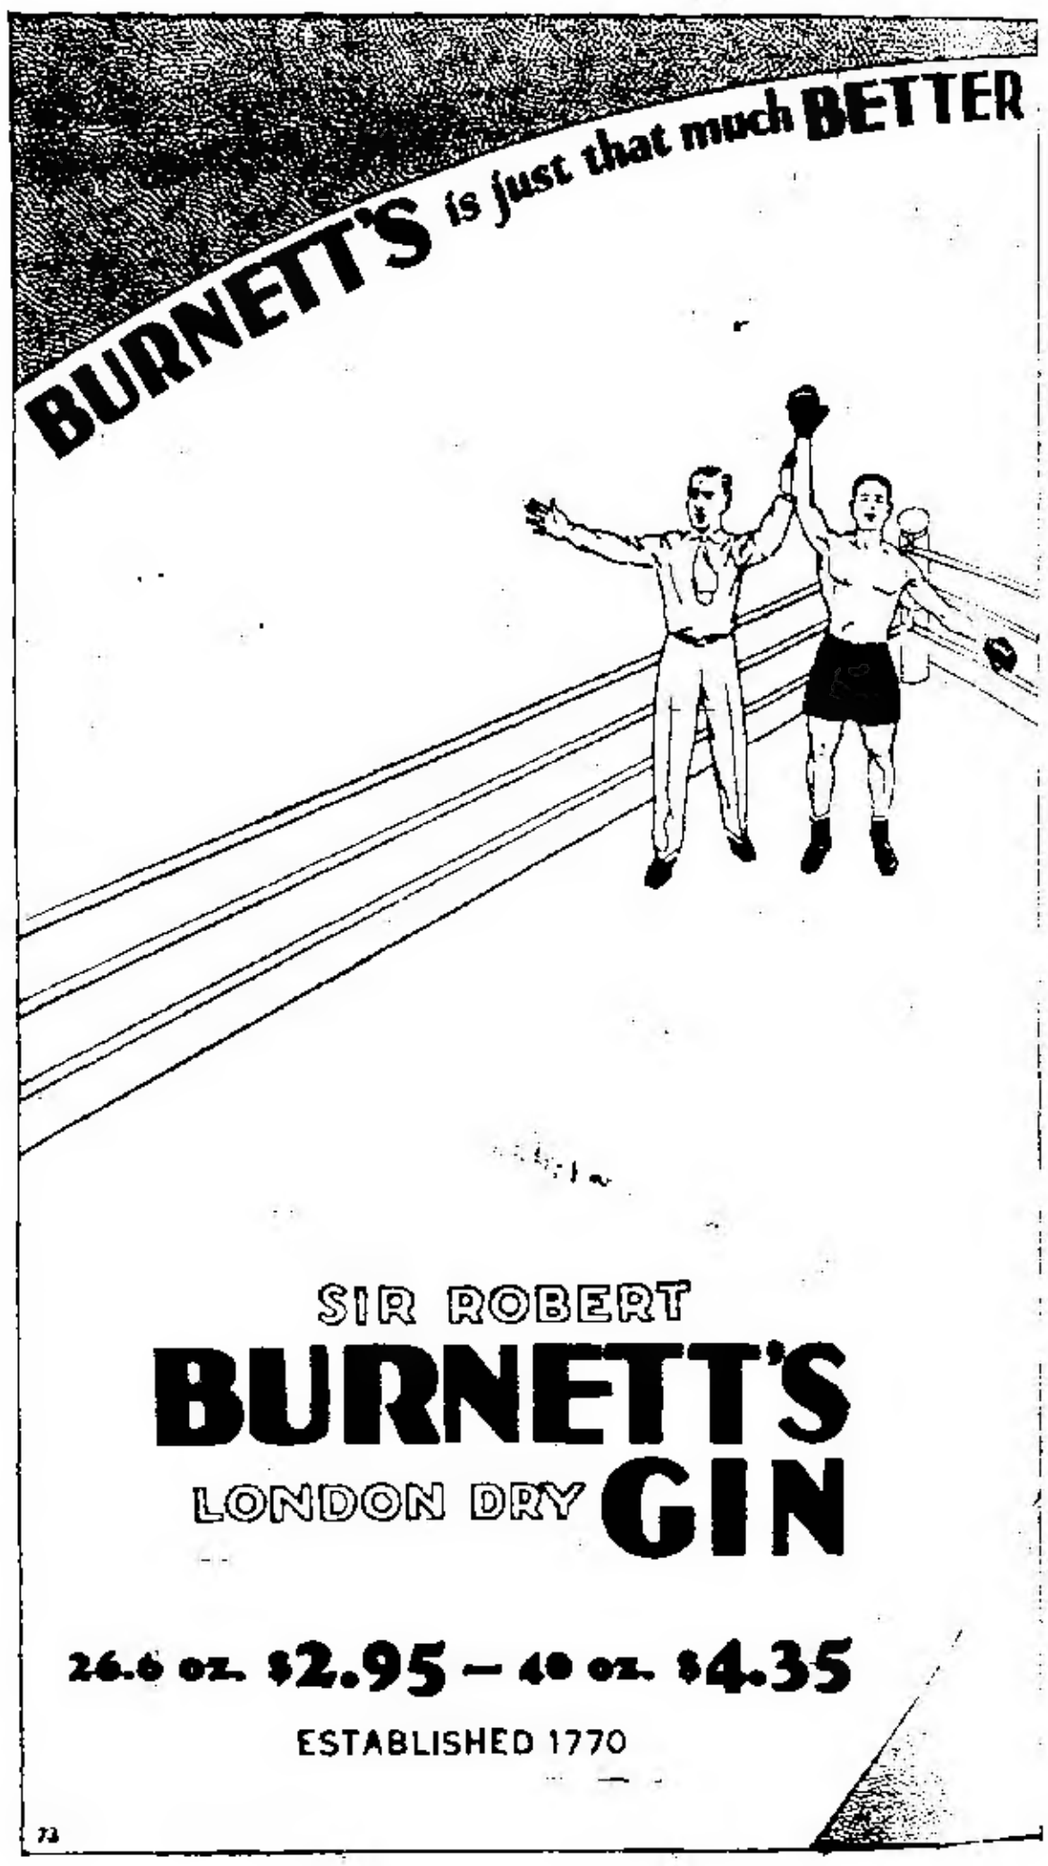
Condemnation of anti-Jewish outbreaks in Rumania was voiced in New York at a meeting of the United Rumanian Jews of America by Leo Wolfson, president of the organization. The meeting was held at the Hotel Pennsylvania and was attended by several hundred members of the organization.

"Within recent months almost daily attacks upon Jews and the destruction of their property have taken place in Rumania," Mr. Wolfson said. "We condemn these excesses and anti-Jewish agitation in the strongest possible terms. To our stricken brethren in Rumania, we express our deepest sympathy. We demand of the Rumanian Government the full and complete protection of Jewish life and the safeguarding of Jewish property."

A statement released last night in behalf of the Rumanian Legation in this city denied in strong terms that the Rumanian Government had pursued or intended to pursue an anti-Semitic policy. The Rumania Constitution has placed the Jews on a footing of "complete equality" politically and economically with other citizens of Rumania, and the present régime intends to live up to that promise, the statement said.

Toronto Hadassah

Over $10,000 was pledged at a meeting of Toronto Chapters of Hadassah, when Mrs. A. J. Freiman, president of Dominion Hadassah, and chairman of the campaign for Hadassah spoke on behalf of the United Palestine Appeal which opens in Toronto May 26. Thursday, May 22, Mrs. Freiman attended a rally of the men workers. The week of May 26-31 will be celebrated as a Pro-Palestine week in Winnipeg. Chapters have been organized in the West by Mrs. M. Rady, Western Vice-president for Hadassah.



to spare in the country for a very large Jewish immigration for years to come without any such disturbance as the Mandate forbids. It is only recently, too, that the special investigation undertaken at the instance of the late Mr. Louis Marshall and his non-Zionist friends, preparatory to their entering the Mixed Jewish Agency, reported in full confirmation of the estimate arrived at by Dr. Weizmann and his colleagues. On the other hand, the proviso in the Mandate we have alluded to must be read and interpreted reasonably. Because it might be possible to argue that any accretion to the population of Palestine by immigration and settlement there of Jews would be prejudicial to the present position of the Arab indigenous population. That the Government shall be led to take such a reasonable view of the situation as it should be the first duty of the Zionist Organisation to make certain; and we agree with Mr. Sacher who, in the very able speech he delivered at Manchester on Sunday, insisted that far more important than Jews bothering themselves with Arab opinion or striving, with the almost certainty of failure, to get to an understanding with them, is it to come to clear and well-understood terms with the British Government. And as we have so many times urged a first step in that direction is to obtain from the Government a clear and definite interpretation of its meaning of that oft-employed but still obscure expression, because it is capable of such various translations, Jewish National Home. We have been looking forward ever since the report of the Shaw Commission was presented to an unequivocal statement on that point by the Prime Minister, and we suppose it will now have to be delayed until Sir John Simpson has executed his mission."

HAMILTON

Seventy members and friends of the Council of Jewish Women were present in Noble's Strathcona Room, for the luncheon which marked the eighth annual meeting. Songs had been composed by Miss B. Cohen and the singing was led by Miss S. Mintz, the accompaniment being by Mrs. L. Florence. The toast to the sisterhoods was proposed by Mrs. B. Goldblatt and responded to by Mrs. S. A. Lyons; that to the Hadassah was proposed by Mrs. I. Segel and the response was by Mrs. H. B. Kentor. The report of Mrs. M. Beube, retiring recording secretary, reviewed in a humorous form the last annual meeting. The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. C. H. Moses. The president, Mrs. S. Freshman, president, welcomed Toronto visitors and thanked the committee which had presented her with a corsage bouquet.

In closing an appeal was made to each member to try to live up to the ideals expressed by the preamble by-laws of the National Council of Jewish Women "to further the best and highest interests of humanity in the fields of religion, philanthropy, civilization." Mrs. I. Segel, convener of the Sanatorium committee, gave her report. The report on the S. Levy classes was given by Mrs. P. Wolfe. Miss B. Cohen, convener of the nominating committee, read her slate of officers as follows: Honorary president, Mrs. S. A. Lyons; president, Mrs. S. Freshman; first vice-president, Miss B. Cohen; second vice-president, Mrs. H. Cohen; third vice-president, Mrs. A. Feldman; corresponding secretary, Miss B. Culler; recording secretary, Mrs. P. Wolfe; financial secretary, Miss B. Cohen; treasurer, Mrs. A. Jatman; executive, Mesdames H. Cohen, A. Feldman, A. Frankfutter, B. Goldblatt A. Jatman, H. B. Kentor, J. Levinson, Morris Levy, D. Levy, J. Mandell, S. B. Lyons, S. Needle, I. Segel, J. Skudurick, S. Rabkin, D. Seigel, H. Miller, J. Treister, D. Stringer, J. Lewis.

Miss Norma Gusner sang accompanied by Miss B. Minden.

Mrs. W. T. Hallam, president of the Local Council of Women spoke. Mrs. Hallam enumerated the qualities necessary for a good member of any organization. These are: sincerity, loyalty and unity. "If we are sincere," she said, "we are interested in our organization, and believe in it. If we are loyal, we will subdue any different opinions which we may hold and be loyal to our motto, to our constitution and to our officers. Unity will prevent us from forming into little groups, each having its own opinion, but will result in making us all work for a common cause."

Miss M. Mintz moved a vote of thanks.

WALKER—SEAGRAM MERGER

It is understood that negotiations are nearing completion for a merger between Hiram Walker-Gooderham & Worts and Distillers Corporation-Seagram. The plan, it is reported, will involve the formation of a new holding company and a share for share exchange for both companies.

It is stated unofficially, but from what is regarded as a reliable source, that sales of Distillers-Seagram in the first half year were about equal to those for all of the last fiscal year, when the company showed $1.55 earned on the common stock and it appears that the dividend which is now at the rate of $1. per share per annum will be earned this year more than twice over. This is barring any unforseen adverse development.

McCOLL—FRONTENAC

Higher earnings and a reflection in the balance sheet of the steady progress of expansion being carried out by the company is shown in annual financial statement of McColl-Frontenac Oil Co., Ltd. for the 12-month period ended January 31, 1930. Earnings on the common stock were equal to $1.91 per share as against $1.41 in the preceding report.

COCKSHUTT PLOW

Cockshutt Plow has suffered some shrinkage in business to date in Western Canada as compared with the same period in 1929. Interests close to the company, however, look for a marked upturn in business during the last few months of the year.

TUCKETT—IMPERIAL TOBACCO

Coincident with the release of the annual report of the Tuckett Tobacco Company, Limited, for the year ended March 31, 1930, there has been forwarded to shareholders a circular letter outlining an offer of a share exchange made to the company by the Imperial Tobacco Company of Canada, Limited. The basis of the exchange is 30 shares of Imperial for each share of Tuckett, indicating a valuation of $300. for Tuckett calculated on the current price of Imperial at $10.

Tuckett's report shows a large increase in net profits and further expansion in working capital position. The share earnings on the common stock are equal to $19.78 as against $12.67 on the common stock are equal to $19.78 as against $12.67 on the same stock last year.

Can. Cotton Report Reflects Unfavorable Textile Operations

THE financial statement of Canadian Cottons, Limited, for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1930, just released, shows a further reduction in operating profits, reflecting the difficulties with which the company had to contend during that period in the way of low import duties on cottons, price cutting and the general depression in textile business throughout the world.

Operating profits for the year amounted to $75,574, as compared with $255,946 in the preceding report. Interest on investments amounted to $135,570, making a total income of $211,144 against the 1928-29 item of $398,755. Bond interest accounted for $139,472 and after provision for bad debts, $13,958, there was shown a balance applicable to dividends on both classes of securities of $57,714 against $240,910 in the preceding year. Payment in preferred dividends at $219,690 thus entailed drawing on surplus to the extent of $161,976 and payment of three quarterly common dividends absorbed a further $162,930, making a total appropriation from profit and loss account for the year of $324,906 and for the two years $520,926. As announced recently further dividends on the common will be withheld until the outlook for the company shows a marked improvement.

Current assets are shown at $6,316,488 and current liabilities at $1,428,443, leaving net working capital at $4,888,045, against $4,954,679 in preceding report, this maintenance of a strong working capital position being one of the most pleasing features of the statement. The balance sheet shows a reduction in total assets at $17,548,602. Accounts receivable are higher by about $500,000 while inventories are reduced by nearly $900,000. On the liability side reductions are shown in bonded indebtedness and accounts payable while the bank loan of $109,419 shown in the 1929 statement is repaid.

MINING CORPORATION

At the annual meeting of Mining Corporation of Canada, held here last week at which President J. P. Watson presided and at which $493,252 shares were represented, shareholders were informed that dividends would be deferred until conditions became more normal. Referring to the holdings of the company, as regards both Hudson Bay Mining & Smelting Company and Base Metals Mining Corporation, he stated that the company has assets of very great potential values in excess of the current prices quoted for the shares on the stock market.

HUDSON BAY MINING & SMELTING

Sinking of the No. 1 shaft at Hudson Bay's Flin Flon mine is said to have been halted at its objective of 900 feet, and the No. 3 shaft half a mile to the south which is now at 500 feet, will be carried down to 900. It will serve ventilation purposes and also hoist waste rock. In between the 2 shafts is the big ore zone which it is planned to mine by open-cut methods. The overburden on this body has not yet been removed. When power is available at the mine, electric shovels will be employed at this task.

AMULET GOLD

From Rouyn comes word that Amulet is producing an excellent grade concentrate, with mill tonnage approximately 300 tons daily.

CANADIAN CANNERS

Evidence of progress in all departments is reflected in the financial statement of Canadian Canners, Limited, for the fourteen months period ending February, 1930.

Operating profit for the fourteen months is reported at $1,909,633 compared with $1,501,239 for the twelve months preceding. This was almost ten times bond interest requirement of $262,004 and after providing $400,000 for depreciation there remained $1,247,630 to meet the preferred dividend of $273,426. Deduction of dividends on the first preferred left $974,204 available for distribution on the convertible preferred and ordinary shares outstanding or approximately $1.95 a share on the combined total. In the year of 1928 a sum of $665,034 was provided for depreciation leaving earnings available for distribution on both classes of junior stock of approximately 70 cents a share.

WINNIPEG ELECTRIC

The alleged delay of the city council in arriving at a decision upon the application of the Winnipeg Electric Company for increased revenue has resulted in the demand of the company for a still further increase in fares, it was learned, from two official sources.

The latest demand of the company is a fare of ten cents cash, at any time and under all circumstances. This was learned from a reliable source in the company's office.

DOMINION STORES

Dominion Stores, Limited, reports sales for the five week month ending April 26th, 1930, of $2,483,974.92 as compared with $2,448,807.22 for the corresponding five week period in 1929—an increase of $35,167,70.

For the 17 weeks period ended April 26th, sales amounted to $8,073,144, as compared with $7,837,440 in the corresponding period of 1929, representing an increase of $235,704, or 3%.

EASTERN STEEL PRODUCTS

Net profits of Eastern Steel Products, Limited, available for dividends for the year ended November 30th, 1929, amounted to $311,589, according to the annual statement, thus revealing a substantial growth over the previous period when profits were $279,101. After allowing for preferred dividends the residue left for the common stock was $273,434, equal to $4.72 per share on the 58,000 shares outstanding, as compared with $223,854, equal to $3.86 per share on the 58,000 shares outstanding in the previous year.

"Sometimes when people censure me,
I tell them without rancor,
That for what it cost me to be free,
I might have had an anchor."

At the annual meeting of the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies of Montreal, Allan Bronfman, chairman of the Executive Committee, told his hearers:

"The most pressing need of Federation at this time is more men of ability to serve on the Boards of our Institutions and to take a general interest in our organisation, not only in the matter of administration of our various welfare agencies, but also in the matter of sharing the responsibility of raising funds during our annual campaign. A wider membership for Federation should be our aim for 1930, so that we may be able to meet the ever-increasing needs of a growing community, and so that the burden and privilege of responsibility may be more generally shared. The mere accumulation of large sums of money should not be the ultimate or chief aim in life. It is the faculty of doing good with the money and talents at one's command that brings the greatest satisfaction. Bad times strike first at the poor and during a period of depression, it is particularly incumbent upon all subscribers to pay their subscriptions promptly. Let us bear in mind that in the final analysis, the standard of citizenship in community is often judged by the manner in which it discharges its duty to the widow, the orphan, the sick and the poverty-stricken. A great deal of time has been devoted to a careful scrutiny and analysis of the budgets for the coming year, and rigid economies have been instituted in all branches of our service. It would appear however, that our minimum requirements, will be more onerous than ever before. I made this statement in order that our members may be acquainted with the true situation so that when with full knowledge of the facts, they give their mandate to the newly-elected Boards and Officers, they may realize that such mandate must be accompanied by a collateral assurance of their fullest co-operation in service and contribution. It is frankly recognized that the problem of financing the requirements of our constituent societies is intimately tied up with the problem of the community's ability to meet them. I, for one, feel that the Jewish attitude to the poor and needy is not a thing that changes with the vicissitudes of the times. The character of a community, like that of an individual, receives its greatest test and, at the same time, its greatest upbuilding not when the tide runs smooth, but rather when storms stalk the path. The community worth while is that which, in the face of obstacles and adversity, comes sailing through with determination and courage."

The above, which appeared in a report in last week's Review, is reprinted here because it has that rare ring of sincerity and the authentic challenge of the leader to communal responsibility which distinguish it from other speeches of its kind. Its lack of hokum, of calculated over-the-top-ness and of luxuriant language are a great relief from the usual attempt to warm the blood of the dutiful. It is a simple call, forthright, practical, and eloquent with unpretentious conviction.

The following is an excerpt from the annual report of a certain Canadian Jewish organization: "It being a complete impossibility to hope to record such a long list of people as have been helpful I trust that this expression of thanks will be acceptable to all. We express deep appreciation particularly to the rank and file of our campaign organization who without any fanfare of publicity and honors gave so liberally of their time and energy. You will notice that I have refrained from mentioning the name of any worker but there are too many to allow of even mentioning their names."

Why such temperance? This seems a mistake on the part of an organization the life blood of which is its interested, active membership, its rank and file. Most annual reports are choked with the weeds of verbosity, anyway. Almost any annual report which has ever come to the attention of this column could be given in one tenth the time at the most. Very few have ever contained anything of such absorbing nature that the names of volunteer workers and what they did would not be more interesting.

A little praise for the many people who do the drudgery of electing, collecting and applauding and who remain in the background because there is so little effort to bring them forward, should go a long way. If it is a matter of policy that pays to have five vice-presidents in an organization it should also be a paying policy to develop a system by which the humblest lights might shine at least once a year.

An organization which has such a heavy list of helpful workers that mere mention of them is cumbersome is luckier than it deserves to be, perhaps. It is always easy and the speaker's time is never too short to express deep appreciation for the large money-givers. Time, energy and devotion are invaluable, too. It ought to be easy to record and a pleasure to mention publicly those who give of themselves so liberally and without fanfare of publicity, no matter how many they are. f.f.e.

A Good Time Was Had By All

By Joseph Samuel

(Concluded from last week)

"Mamma-a-a—gimme some grapes."

"Such a bright boy," continues Burman ironically. (I heard some rumors about his Hamlet having had a fight with Itzale when the former came off a poor second). "Whenever the teacher asks him for a sentence for the class for grammar, do you think he says, gimme an apple or something? No. Always he says, 'The horse fell down.' Brilliant imagination. 'Isaac Mendik give me a sentence.' 'Please, teacher, the horse fell down.'"

Augh! Sinister obsession of collapsing quadrupeds.

Hors d'oeuvres are served, and amidst the clatter of knives and forks, the clink of glasses and bluzs of talk, chiefly anecdotage, Mr. Cohen, who has constituted himself master of ceremonies, stands up to read the telegrams. And who is Mr. Cohen? Mr. Cohen is a Macher. He it was who, during the war, rescued Mendel Backner from incarceration in a concentration camp; he it was who wrote to the Home Office explaining that when Mr. Backner had told the detective he was in possession of firearms, what he had meant was fire-irons. He it was who wrote to the Headmaster of the Salford Secondary School for Boys asking for Jewish Students to be excused from singing "Good King Wenceslas" and "Noel" during the singing lessons. Also (while he was at it) could they be allowed to finish school at three o'clock on Friday afternoons during the winter because it gets dark so early. He it is who organizes the Manchester Jewish Amateur Dramatic Society and the man who can organize anything. And he it is who invariably stands before the curtain prior to the first act to explain that the reason why the production cannot begin before 9 p.m. is because the people who have shops must also come.

He pushes back his chair, stands up—and displays a bundle of pink telegram forms in his right hand.

"Ladies and Gentlemen, I have here some telegrams and I am sure you would all like to hear them." "Hear, hear."

"They're off already with the I'm sures," whispers Burman to me. "He can't wait for the regular speeches when we've finished eating and we can go home."

"One here from—from," sings out Mr. Cohen, fumbling with the telegram while he tries to make out the scrawl of English inland telegrams, "from—from—Michel Paul."

"You mean Uncle Saul," shouts Seidman indignantly.

"Oh, yes, Uncle Saul," repeats Mr. Cohen with a happy smile of understanding. "Of course, Uncle Saul Bride and Bridegroom. Mazeltov, Uncle Saul."

Applause. He picks out the second telegram. "Chosen Kaleh Bride and Bridegroom's parents, relatives and friends. Sorry could not be present. All long life and happiness. Hope to be present at Britheth (Laughter). Annie, Harry, David, Fanny, Bella, Esther, Sam."

The next telegram is a fictitious one, invented for the occasion by the indefatigable Mr. Cohen, a suggestive expression supposedly signed by Lloyd George—something about unions and increased membership. It is greeted with interpolated laughter. Mrs. Goldstein's cackle is heard above everybody else's laughter in a startling ecstasy of appreciation.

Mrs. Scholoimovitch "Well isn't he funny?"

Mrs. Napthali: "Oi, I'll be laughing if he doesn't stop."

A Voice: "Me? I could hold my sides from him."

Mr. Cohen is voted a wit and his reputation is established. When the laughter has died down, Mr. Cohen continues with an occasional quiet laugh at his witticism. "To Mr. and Mrs. Abram Adler." "Hear, hear." That was a clever touch—Mr. and Mrs. Abram Adler. Who could have sent that? "At one in happy consummation at this supreme hour Cousin Julius." Vociferous applause. Nobody understands a word. (Cousin Julius is studying law.) Only Mrs. Michaels shows off her ignorance and wants to know what it means. She asks Burman in a shocked whisper. "You mean he wishes them consumption this minute?" "Ach, what a question." "Nu, what does it mean?" "Sh-sh-sh," says Burman sternly, resenting suddenly Mrs. Michael's interruption of the proceedings. Then come more mazeltovs and finally another fictitious telegram, this time signed by Mr. Ford. The contents hinting darkly at new models and increased cost of production indicate that Mr. Cohen is shaking off the timidity which shackled his imagination a few minutes ago. There is another howl of laughter. Mrs. Goldstein's ear-splitting cackle is heard in a desperate effort to establish its dominance. Mr. Cohen, while the merriment is still at its height, sits down and in doing so, upsets his soup plate. Mrs. Goldstein, who is seated next to him, suddenly stops laughing. A mitzveh.

Fortunately, or rather naturally, the soup is cold and the only damage done is to Mrs. Goldstein's dress. Soup and colors run.

"Mamma-a-a, gimme a jacket?"

Now you hear Mrs. Schloimovitch relate how, at her wedding, her elder brother, who had come over from Butchetch for the ceremony, upset a bottle of wine while reaching for a pickle.

"And the wine flowed freely, I suppose, interrupted Mr. Cohen with pleasant raillery.

"Well, I suppose so," answers Mrs. Schloimovitch cautiously.

"I t'ought so," exclaims a sharp voice.

Burman nudges me. "That's him," he says. "Solomon. Whatever you tell him that he never dreamt about he says I t'ought so. I t'ought so," repeats Burman with slow derision. "I tell him my son's scholarship is for 60 pounds a year and he says, I t'ought so. He ask me how much a five pounds. He says at once, I week in Blackpool cost me and I say, t'ought so. Why? Why does he always t'ink so? Maybe you could be so clever."

"Oh, it's a manner o' speaking, so to speak," says I.

"Yeah? Mind you, I t'ought so."

Thoroughly, almost grimly, we settle down to the meal. General conversation begins to languish. We travel through the soup, the roast, chicken, potatoes and cabbage, the stewed prunes, apples and raisins, the cakes,nuts and wine in gastric solemnity. Even Itzale is scared unto silence. Suddenly a hoarse voice breaks into a chant—Shir Hamaloth. Elsewhere a group is saying grace. Mr. Cohen can hardly contain himself. Barely has the last grace been concluded and the last note wailed into silence then up he jumps.

"Ladies and gentlemen, I am sure the bride's parents would like to say a few words, and I am sure that all of us would have the greatest pleasure in listening to them.

"I'm sure," mutters Burman.

Mrs. Seidman nudges Mr. Seidman. He stands up and stares round bewildered. "I have nothing to say," he says at last. Ah, inspiration. "I am too full for words." With superlative effort we eke out a general laugh. "Oh, come, come," wheedles Mr. Cohen.

General commotion among the juveniles. Pessele Feingold fell off her chair. She is promised the alternative of six-pence or a hiding when she gets home. Order is restored.

"Mr. Seidman now," mildly expostulates Mr. Cohen, who not for a moment had lost his presence of mind.

Mr. Seidman whips 'round startled. "I—I won't speak!" he hisses with such ferocity through his clenched and interlocking whiskers that another would have been ignominously cowed. Not so Mr. Cohen.

"Mr. Adler, then," says he imperturbably. "I am sure you would like to say a few words." The man's assurance is unnerving.

Mr. Adler gets up slowly, moves a couple of glasses from in front of him to the right, deposits a few crumbs with conscientious meticulousness in the flower vase and, having thus cleared the deck for action, he launches forth:

"Chairman, ladies and gentlemen, I was hoping that I would not be called upon to speak, but I see my hopes were in vain." (Gentle wan and pallid smile of tolerance. The fluency with which he had begun his speech at once gives the lie to his introductory remark). "As you know, I am a man of very few words, and all I can say is" —

"Mamma-a-a, gimme an orange?" Itzale has recovered.

"I wish my son and daughter-in-law everything they wish themselves My Abram was a good son and I am sure he will be a good husband and a good father, and I am sure that in Fannie he has found an ideal wife, who will be a companion to him and a friend. It says in the Torah"—(pompously)—"well, never mind what it says in the Torah"—(lamely—his memory has failed him at the last moment)—"but, anyway, I am sure there will not be a happier couple in all England. A toast for the new family!"

We all fill glasses and drink. Mr. Fish is now so enthusiastic that he can only testify to his complete agreement with Mr. Adler's sentiments by dispensing with formality of a glass.

"You know," says Burman to me, "this is the only part of the speech that I can stomach."

Without loss of one second, Mr. Cohen calls upon Mr. Rubenstein as friend of the family. Mr. Rubenstein pops up with alacrity and with neither a preliminary cough or an appeal to our knowledge of him as a man of few words, he at once settles down to the business in hand.

"I have known Fanny's family, for the last thirty years, and I must say that I have never met a more virtuous girl, a more good girl, a more refined, a more nice, a more sweet girl than our Fannie."

(Loud applause at the possessive plural.) "As a wife, I am sure she will be an ideal mother and friend. I remember," continues Mr. Rubenstein dreamily "when Fanny used to come to me for her Sunday pennies." (Laughter.) "One day she comes to me and says"— (Laughter). "such a child she was when she was already four, and I am sure you will all agree with me when I say that Mr. Adler has been very, very lucky."

"Oi, so lucky," mutters Burman clutching one side of his face as if overwhelmed. "You could be from such luck."

A Good Time

Mr. Rubenstein continues in this mixed strain of alternate adulation and reminiscence for another ten minutes, after which he sits down amidst wild applause, feeling he has earned his dinner. More speeches are delivered. People are sure of this and that with alarming disregard of fact and probability. The bridegroom becomes literally wrought up. When Mr. Cohen finally calls upon him to reply, he gets up almost panting. He feels he has been phenomenally fortunate in meeting his wife. He feels that life from now on will be simply Paradise. Not even Fannie's presence of mind, as illustrated by Mr. Rubenstein, holds any terrors for him.

"Gentlemen," he stutters, "father, mother, relatives, friends, and—and friends, I simply cannot reply to—to all the kind wishes and—and—assurances from you all. I can only thank you—thank you—from the bottom of my heart—and—and my wife's bottom—bottom of her heart." He flops down exhausted. Prolonged applause.

"What about a dance?" asks a small voice.

Mr. Cohen jumps up. "You know there can be no dancing on Sundays. Don't you know yet that the Watch Committee won't allow any music?"

"Well, why wasn't the wedding made during the week?"

Mr. Cohen fairly bursts with assurance. He is on his specialty now. "Because we should have to make it after nine o'clock and," he adds with deliberate slowness, "the people who have shops must also come."

That settles it. When the young people hear that categoric pronunciamento, they push back their chairs and make a rush for the cloak-room. Two inviting eyes beckon me from the doorway—Rebecca—The motion is not unobserved by Burman, for as I rise and bid him a hasty good afternoon he nods his head and answers sardonically:

"Soon by you."

"Mamma-a-a, gimme some nuts?"
—Sentinel.

LOEW'S NEXT WEEK

Bringing to the speaking screen one of the most dramatic and gripping situations ever filmed, the Fox feature "Men Without Women" will thrill Loew's Theatre patrons next week.

This is a magnificent drama of sea faring men, men who have no fear and men who become heroes in the face of death. The submarine crew who face slow death in this amazing drama are men of contrasting character and temperament. Good chaps who reveal courage and fineness when they have but an hour to live. Kenneth MacKenna, Farrell MacDonald and a fine cast are to be seen in this story of a submarine trapped and crippled in ninety five feet of water.

Boisterous speech, realism and tragedy of poignant interest characterize "Men Without Women". Fine acting and wonderful camera work now have the added zest of conversation preceeding certain doom. This is a great vital, vivid story superbly produced and one which will appeal to all adventure loving film fans.

Billy Glason, the musical comedy star, and Harrison and Fisher in a beautiful revue "Living Jewelery" will provide the outstanding attractions on a very smart stage program.

BELLWOODS PARK LEAGUE

In Bellwoods Park Softball League Diamonds are in the lead with two wins, the first over Lynn, by 11 to 8, with the second against A.Z.A., when they came across with six runs in one inning. Lederman, last year with Pride of Israel, is twirling fine ball for the Diamonds, who are being coached by Harry Polevoy. Tuscan Knights had "Lefty" Ginsberg on the mound in their first game. Lynn has added Chessin to their twirling staff, with Balakofsky and Starkman also ready. A.Z.A., the Junior Bnai Brith team has two good twirlers in Barofsky, last year with the Pride of Israel Champions, and Cantor who has been an ace on Midget teams for Mannings, the Sobel outfit. This coming week Lynn A.C. play A.Z.A. in the early game; Rolex meet the leading Diamonds in the second.

FIFTY YEARS OF CONSTANT ENTERPRISE

HE WAS A NOTABLE IN TOWN

He used to come along the street every night about supper-time and light up the old oil lamps. In the morning he would fill them for another night.

He and his horse were notables in town.

You may not remember the lamp-lighter because he belongs to the Canada of fifty years ago when Imperial Oil was a new company making the kerosene which the lamp-lighter used.

Invention of electric light was the end of the lamp-lighter but it was only the beginning of change in the oil business. The automobile, modern machinery, the airplane—each has demanded new products. Each new product has meant endless experiment and unceasing effort.

That has been the work of Imperial Oil men through fifty years—to make modern transportation possible by perfection of gasoline and lubrication.

Because their work has been good, people have learned to trust Imperial Oil products and Imperial has grown from a few hundred men in one small refinery to over nine thousand men—six great refineries—stations in every corner of Canada—pipe-lines in South America—drillers in the Arctic—miles of tank cars—ships on the Atlantic and Pacific.

Fifty years of constant enterprise and experience are in the products Imperial Oil sells today.

Marvelube is Imperial's finest motor oil.

Imperial Premier and Imperial Ethyl are its best gasolines.

Which means that nothing finer can be put in your car.
